Forecast for Saturday 05 Jun 2021

Weather: Some early isolated mist and fog/low cloud patches, but these soon lifting and clearing in the early morning. A dry and sunny morning with scattered cloud from noon onward. Cloud increasing further throughout the afternoon perhaps with outbreaks of rain reaching western areas of the Brecon Beacons from early evening. The rain is likely to be largely light with a few heavier bursts possible.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 600m: 100%, falling to 80% during the late afternoon.

Visibility: Early mist and fog patches reducing visibility to 800-4000m, but these soon clearing. Generally very good visibility throughout the day with cloud bases above summits. However cloud bases will reduce from mid-afternoon towards 800m, with outbreaks of rain reducing visibilities to moderate late in the day.

Meteorologist's View

High UV levels are likely to be high during sunny spells, so sun protection is recommended if you plan to spend much of the day in the mountains. However, the weather is likely to deteriorate during the afternoon with outbreaks of rain possible later, so some provision for wet weather clothing it recommended.
